

BIG FEET REVOLUTION

Posted on March 11, 2017 by urbanNext

Categories: Energy and sustainability, Harvard GSD, High Density, Ibai Rigby Assoc, Kongjian Yu, Talk, Urban Paradigms

Tags: Aesthetic values, Agricultural trends, Background, Big feet revolution, China, City Protocol, Ecological infrastructure, Framing landscape urbanism, Future cities, Global Awareness, Global scale, Harvard University Graduate School of Design, Landscape Architecture, Optimized living, Soft infrastructures, Sustainable infrastructure, talk, Tradition, Urban infrastructure, Urban Paradigms, Urban political ecology, Urban renewal, Urban sensibility, Urbanization

urbanNext Lexicon

Big Feet Revolution

<https://urbannext.net/big-feet-revolution/>

In this short film, excerpt of an interview produced during the symposium "Decoding Asian Urbanism" held at the South Asian Institute at Harvard University, landscape architect Kongjian Yu talks about how ecological lifestyles demand for a new set of aesthetic values.

ISSN : 2575-5374

urbanNext Lexicon

Big Feet Revolution
<https://urbannext.net/big-feet-revolution/>

ISSN : 2575-5374