

DESIGNING FOR CHILDREN: COLLABORATION FOR A WELCOMING ENVIRONMENT

Posted on August 9, 2023 by martabuges

Categories: Amica Dall, Gloria Schönburg, No Density, Politics and economics, Roger Paez, Talk, Urban Paradigms

Tags: Adaptative system, Architecture, Care, Children, City Making, Collaboration, Design strategies, Education, Environment, Leisure, talk, Urbanism

Authorship: Interview conducted by Roger Paez. Content editing by Gloria Schönburg. Video editing by Sara Traba.

urbanNext Lexicon

Designing for Children: Collaboration for a Welcoming
Environment

<https://urbannext.net/designing-for-children/>

Amica Dall is a founding member of Assemble Studio, a collective focused on collaborative ways of constructing and improving cities. She is also a founding trustee of Baltic Street Adventure Playground and trustee of Theatrum Mundi. Her work revolves around architecture, city-making and children's rights and is manifested through collaborative urban projects, books, films and teaching.

In this video she talks about collaboration in design and about the importance of including children in the city making process, so that they grow in an adapted and welcoming environment.

ISSN : 2575-5374

urbanNext Lexicon

Designing for Children: Collaboration for a Welcoming
Environment

<https://urbannext.net/designing-for-children/>

ISSN : 2575-5374