

MICROBIAL ARCHITECTURE: TURNING USERS INTO PRODUCERS

Posted on April 14, 2021 by martabuges

Categories: Designing Matter, Energy and sustainability, IaaC, No Density, Rachel Armstrong, Talk

Tags: Bio-engineering, Biological technologies, Biomaterial, Developing policies, Education, Energy production, Global Awareness, Living system, Prototype, Research, Resource distribution, talk, Technologies

urbanNext Lexicon

Microbial Architecture: Turning Users into Producers
<https://urbannext.net/microbial-architecture/>

urbanNext interviews Rachel Armstrong on microbial architecture and new technologies that could turn users into producers of their own resources.

ISSN : 2575-5374

urbanNext Lexicon

Microbial Architecture: Turning Users into Producers

<https://urbannext.net/microbial-architecture/>

ISSN : 2575-5374