urbanNext Lexicon

Organizational Models for Global Architecture https://urbannext.net/organizational-models-for-global-architecture/

ORGANIZATIONAL MODELS FOR GLOBAL ARCHITECTURE

Posted on March 1, 2018 by content

Categories: Actar, Ciro Najle, expanding design practices, High Density, Ricardo Devesa, Talk, Territory and mobility, The Generic Sublime, Urban Paradigms

Tags: Architect's role, Architectural theory, Architecture, Building, Concept, Design-based research, Discipline, Form, Global Awareness, Global Cities, Harvard, Landscape, Manhattan, Models, New York City, Planetary urbanizations, Skyscrapers, talk, Territory, Urban conditions, Urban Paradigms, USA, Utopian practices

ISSN : 2575-5374

urbanNext Lexicon

Organizational Models for Global Architecture https://urbannext.net/organizational-models-for-global-architecture/

urbanNext interviews Ciro Najle on The Generic Sublime: Organizational Models for Global Architecture, a book that investigates how the modern concept of the generic –once assumed to achieve universality by means of organizational homogeneity, formal neutrality, programmatic blankness, lack of identity, and insipidness of character– holds the potential to become its very opposite: the singular, the irreducible, and the extraordinary.

ISSN : 2575-5374

urbanNext Lexicon

Organizational Models for Global Architecture https://urbannext.net/organizational-models-for-global-architecture/

ISSN : 2575-5374