

TOPIA.
Regaining Urban Control.
Hagar Abiri

TOPIA. REGAINING URBAN CONTROL

Posted on July 13, 2017 by urbanNext

---

Categories: Energy and sustainability, Essay, expanding design practices, Hagar Abiri, Middle Density, Politics and economics, Technology and fabrication, Territory and mobility, Urban Paradigms

Tags: Architect's role, Bauhaus, Dessau-Roßlau, Dialectical utopias, Diversity, Environment, Environmental imbalances, Essay, Farming, Food, Food production, Global, Global Awareness, Health, Local, Materials, Mind Shift, Nature, Notes towards a History of Urbanism, Urban Paradigms, Urban pathologies, Utopian practices

urbanNext Lexicon

Topia. Regaining Urban Control
<https://urbannext.net/topia-regaining-urban-control/>

Bauhaus Urban Village. Due to its shrinking population and proximity to nature, Dessau has the potential to serve as a valuable source for materials which can be recycled to create a new settlement, called the Bauhaus Urban Village. Based on a new social hybrid system as the main Prosumer concept, the Bauhaus U.V. will answer new needs arising from a changed reality in local as well as global terms.

Dessau 2025

Full content is available only for registered users. Please login or

ISSN : 2575-5374